Sunday's San Francisco Chronicle had an article, PG&E's computer system faulted for pipeline errors, about some findings regarding the San Bruno gas line explosion. One of the problems the article brings up is an inadequate GIS. Give the article a read and it helps drive home the point that doing quality work as a first priority should be a standard within our industry.