I have been a fan of placeSpotting for quite awhile (since 2008) and can spend too much time just solving these spatial riddles. This site is a simple Google Maps challenge game where one map has is focused on a specific spot on the earth and then your job is to zoom in to that specific location on another map. If you are fortunate enough, the creator of the spatial riddle will have provided you with a few hints. You can also create your own challenge for others to solve.

This site has many ways to access it including an iPhone App and a way to add it to an iGoogle page
.

Go check it out and have fun.